

My Sales Strengths

People are often not aware of their own strengths. They often have a bad angle of vision. I have helped many people identify their strengths and use them to their advantage. I have also helped people who are not sure of their own strengths to identify them. I have helped people who are not sure of their own strengths to identify them.

human

Believe it or not, there are 28 different strengths that can be used in sales. Many of these strengths are not commonly known. I have helped many people identify their strengths and use them to their advantage. I have also helped people who are not sure of their own strengths to identify them. I have helped people who are not sure of their own strengths to identify them.

